Japan is Killing Endangered Whales

A bleeding Mother
and her suckling baby,
harpooned in a Whale
Sanctuary

And now they are attempting to murder people!

No one would slaughter livestock by shooting them in the stomach (see the wound on the baby) and leaving them to suffer for anywhere from 15 minutes to an hour before butchering them (in some cases alive)...But that is exactly what Japan is doing to whales right now! If this were not bad enough the whales that are being killed are often endangered and they are being taken in an International Whale Sanctuary.

Now the Japanese whaling fleet has stooped to attempted murder to further their whaling activities. The Captain of one of their huge whaling ships was video taped intentionally swerving around to run down a group of protestors in the Southern Ocean. Make no mistake, the protestors small boat was dead in the water when the giant ship swerved around and ran over it causing it to sink while ignoring its occupants may-day leaving six people (one with broken ribs) thrashing in the frigid Southern Ocean!

Please boycott all Japanese products until the Japanese learn that they should respect international law. Please let them know that attempting to kill people as well as killing endangered whales is simply not going to be tolerated!

Don't buy anything Japanese!

Make copies of this handout and give them out to anyone who believes hunting in an animal sanctuary is poaching and running down protestors on purpose is attempted murder!
